Special Exhibition: “The Jinshin War Era: Exploring the Birth of Mino and Hida Provinces”

The greatest civil war in ancient Japanese history, the Jinshin War (672 CE), and the Asuka period during which it took place, was a significant time for the land of Mino and its people. It was during this era that “Mino

Mirokuji-ato (National Historic Site) Excavated Nokimaru-kawara (rounded roof tile used at the edge of eaves)

Province” and “Hida Province”, the precursors for the present Mino and Hida regions, began to take shape. As well as introducing the Jinshin War, this exhibition will explore the formation of Mino and Hida provinces, focusing on representative excavated artifacts from the Kofun period to the Nara period.
